Global Textile Days

Uzbekistan continues to serve as Central Asia's key production hub for the textile, garment, and fashion industries. Like other leading textile-producing economies, the country is actively addressing emerging challenges by adopting advanced technologies and strengthening its presence in new international markets.

In this context, the large-scale Global Textile Days project - to be held from 9 to 11 September 2025 at the Uzexpocentre NEC in Tashkent - takes on particular significance.

Global Textile Days

The programme will include the following events:

- The 16th Central Asian International Exhibition of Equipment and Technologies for the Textile, Garment and Knitwear Industry - CAITME 2025;
- The 25th Anniversary International Exhibition of the Textile and Garment Industry - TextileExpo Uzbekistan Autumn 2025;
- Uzbekistan International Textile Conference
Central Asia As Sourcing Hub: Sustainability VS Global Challenges

This comprehensive project will provide a vibrant international platform for dialogue, innovation and partnership. Why Uzbekistan?

Participation in the textile industry exhibition in Uzbekistan holds strategic value for both local and international companies. Here are five key reasons why this market deserves your attention:

Rapidly Expanding Market

Uzbekistan ranks among the world's largest cotton producers and is actively investing in the development of its textile industry. The government is prioritising the localisation of textile production, creating favourable environment for the foreign investment, joint ventures and long-term cooperation.

Central Asian Gateway

Exhibiting in Uzbekistan provides access not only to the domestic market but also to the broader region, including Central Asia, the CIS, and China. The country's strategic geographical position makes it a vital logistics and trade hub at the crossroads of key international markets.

Why Uzbekistan?

Showcase for Innovation

The exhibition is a prime opportunity to demonstrate:

- New collections of textiles, garments and accessories
- Modern technologies in dyeing, sewing and packaging
- Sustainable materials and eco-friendly solutions

Networking and Business Development

The exhibition serves as a professional B2B meeting platform for engaging with manufacturers, distributors, designers and retail chains. It offers an ideal environment for business negotiations, new contracts and building commercial partnerships.

Brand Visibility and Market Entry

For international brands, this is an opportunity to strengthen visibility, enhance brand positioning and establish a foothold in one of the region's most promising emerging markets. For local manufacturers, it is a launchpad for their export expansion and new international relations.
